WRITTEN OPINION OF THE
INTERNATIONAL SEARCHING AUTHORITY

International application No.

PCT/JP2004/019779

Box No. V Reasoned statement under Rule 43bis.1(a)(i) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims	2, 5, 6, 8-13	YES
	Claims	1, 3, 4, 7	NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims		YES
	Claims	1-13	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims	1-13	YES
	Claims		NO

2. Citations and explanations:

Document 1: Microfilm of the specification and drawings annexed to the written application of Japanese Utility Model Application No. 052346/1988 (Laid-Open Utility Model No. 155654/1989), (Japan Victor Company), 25 October 1989
Document 2: JP 07-335186 A (Sony Corp), 22 December 1995
Document 3: JP 09-069360 A (Kenwood Corp), 11 March 1997

The inventions of claims 1, 3, 4, and 7 are described in document 1 cited in the ISR, and therefore do not appear to possess novelty or to involve an inventive step. Document 1 describes a battery pack wherein three engaging protrusions per side are provided on both sides of a bottom portion at set intervals.

The inventions of claims 2, 5, 6, and 8-13 do not appear to involve an inventive step over the descriptions in documents 1-3 cited in the ISR. In the invention described in document 1, a person skilled in the art could appropriately set the optimal arrangement or shape of engaging pieces for positioning the battery case. Further, since the stopper wall for preventing incorrect insertion of the battery device is a publicly known structure as described in document 2, it would be easy for a person skilled in the art to employ the stopper wall in document 1. Moreover, an electronic device in which a battery device is attached by sliding is a commonly known structure, as described in documents 2 and 3, and therefore it would be easy for a person skilled in the art to employ the battery back attaching structure described in document 1 in the electronic device.
